

DIPALI RABADIYA

Dipali Rabadiya was born and raised in Gujarat, India, and now lives in McLean, Virginia, with her husband and two sons. She has always enjoyed painting and drawing and began taking classes at a very young age. In 2002, she received a Master of Business Administration degree and moved to the United States, where she worked for few years in logistics companies. Never having lost her passion for art, she pursued a degree in fine arts at Seton Hill University in Greensburg, Pennsylvania. She has taken workshops with Qiang Huang, Jennifer McChristian, Kevin Macpherson, and various other artists. She has won numerous awards.

Dipali is a self-representing daily painter and an instructor. In addition to teaching at Falls Church Arts, she teaches at The Yellow Barn Studio and Gallery in Glen Echo, Maryland. Working in the alla prima style, she paints from observation, creating small still life and landscape paintings in her studio at home. She believes that painting small and often improves the artistic skill and encourages an individual to be more creative their field.
